5. Personal Leadership: Interculturalists Practicing at Our Highest and Best

Cultural differences can ignite conflict and confusing interactions among even experienced interculturalists. This workshop provides you with a system of practice that allows you to step up to your highest and best in intercultural situations (across, for example, nationality, gender, race, ethnicity, and religion), even when their neighbors and colleagues embody significantly different degrees of intercultural sensitivity. The workshop is designed for those who seek to deepen their intercultural practice and effectiveness, including those living and working in multicultural situations.

Tatyana Fertelmeyster is the founder and principal of Connecting Differences LLC. She provides intercultural communication and diversity training to corporate clients, educators, and mental health professionals both nationally and internationally. She specializes in teaching facilitators how to facilitate trainings, meetings, and other group processes. As a Licensed Clinical Professional Counselor, her professional experience includes providing resettlement services to refugees and counseling to individuals and families going through cultural transitions. Tatyana is a co-author of Cultural Detective® Russia and a master trainer of facilitators for Cultural Detective®. She also co-authored the Trainers' Guide for Working with Pre-literate Populations. Tatyana is a Past President of SIETAR USA.
