Peace Fellowship

Three items for your reflection. The first is our upcoming 2018 financial stewardship campaign. Every year we focus on our financial giving. Every year we dream and we wrestle with our dreams and what is possible for ministry in our congregation. Individually, we pray seeking wisdom about how we can best respond with our tithes and our pledges of financial support to the grace of God in our lives. For me, this is always an anxious and exciting time. Anxious because even though I know God is in the mix in all of this and when God's in the mix, there is nothing to fear, I still get a bit anxious. I get nervous about whether our financial pledges and promises will be enough to help make the dreams of our particular ministries come true. At the same time, I mostly get excited because during this season, we hear the stories of faith that rise from the hearts of members of our congregation telling of what this church has meant and means to them. Sometimes that's individually; sometimes that's in small groups; sometimes it happens in worship. And so often, we hear of the wonderful variety of ways of what God has been doing in their lives – in difficult times and in moments that call for celebration, how they have seen God at work in the midst of destruction and violence, and in the beauty that surrounds us and engulfs the world God so loves. I find these stories inspiring; they are sermons in themselves, because they are gospel, Good News. I pray that during this time, you would reflect on what God has done and is doing in your life and throughout the world.

Secondly, a very brief word on what continues to be the rising number of acts of hate, bigotry and discrimination in our country. I started writing this in early August, just a few days after a bomb exploded in a mosque in Minnesota, an act of terrorism. Luckily, no one was injured or killed, and the response from the community there and most in the state of Minnesota has been one of concern, compassion and friendship. And just before I handed this over to Alison for printing, neo-Nazis, white supremacists and other hate groups incited violence in Charlottesville, Virginia. On so many levels, there continues to be a rising anger, a fear-based demeaning of "the other," those "not like us," even proposed federal policies that seem to me, discriminatory and burdensome for the weakest and most vulnerable. From the time Europeans landed on the shores of the North American continent, colonizing Native peoples and then enslaving peoples from Africa, the history of our country has been one of dealing with issues of race, differences and "the other." Today, the cultural air of our country seems so toxic moving us more and more towards separation, not the unity needed to thrive as a culture and country. I come from this principally as one who tries to follow the Way of Jesus. To Jesus, a human being is a human being, a child of God. EVERY person is a child of God, period, to be treated with the dignity and glory every child of God deserves. I think Jesus would have agreed with the old Jewish story that says whenever a person walks down the street, an angel goes before him or her shouting "Make way! Make way! Make way for the child of God!" The anger and suspicion of many who are "not like us" in America and the subtle and not so-subtle comments of some political and religious leaders, is rooted in fear and is a slap in the face of the One who loved the world with everything he had; it is also a rejection of his commandment to "love one another." Tolerance begins with listening to those who hold different beliefs than we do, who look different than we do and who may live differently than we do; acceptance of the other comes when we hear what the other is saying with their lips, bodies and hearts; love comes when we give ourselves to each other to serve the world God so loves in our wonderfully unique ways. And in love, we can honestly say, "he is my brother; she is my sister."

Third, I am in the process of working on a little book I'm calling (at the moment), "Reflections for Prayer." The purpose of the book is to be a tool for one's prayer life, to be used in whatever way is helpful to you. They will be brief reflections, prayers, poems, short stories – some of mine and many from other sources. I intend to include several Advent/Christmas reflections (so I better get it finished by November!), but most of the book will not be "seasonal specific," and it is not intended as a "daily devotional," though it could be used that ways. One's soul knows what it needs so I'm not thinking that there will be any particular way to use this book. I believe that within each of us dwells the One who is constantly urging us to explore our True Selves, that deepest part of ourselves. I'm working on it now; I hope to have it finished late in the fall.

One last note: starting in September, I will be taking Mondays rather than Fridays as my day off. Office hours will remain, Monday through Friday, 9:00am – 1:00pm.

I'm looking forward to a wonderful season filled with the abundance of life that only God gives.

Peace.

Tom

September Communion Offering KIVA

The Mission Committee has designated the September Communion offering to the non-profit, micro-loan organization, KIVA. KIVA is an international non-profit organization whose mission is to connect people through lending to alleviate poverty. The lending is through "micro-loans," as little as $25 dollars, which helps a borrower start or grow a business, go to school, access clean energy or grow food. Most of these loans are for individuals and families in developing countries. The total loans, usually anywhere between $300 and $1,000, are re-paid by the borrower within 18 to 24 months and returned to the lender who usually turns around and makes another loan for another individual or family. For instance, the Reverend Carr loaned $50 to a farm family in Nicaragua whose was seeking a total of $300 to install a very small solar system at their home because the village had no electricity. Within nine months with the $300, the solar installation was accomplished and the loan was refunded and Reverend Carr has loaned $50 to another family.

In the late spring, the children of Second Baptist Church began raising money and are now in the process of choosing a person or family to receive the loan. Following worship on Sundays September 17th and 24th, the children will be in the Fellowship Hall with information about KIVA, their computers ready to show you how we might all engage in this mission that is beyond charity, helping to empower others. With the money raised through this September offering, our hope is to offer micro-loans to several individuals and families around the world. At the same time, the Mission Committee hopes this inspires you to individually consider ways that you can help empower others to fully be the people God intends for all of us.

To find out more about KIVA, go to their website at www.kiva.org. Please prayerfully consider your gift to the September Communion offering.

If you have articles or announcements that you would like to have published in the October edition of The CRIER, the deadline for submission is Wednesday, September 18th.

The Suffield Local Prevention Council (SLPC) is an important awareness raising network helping our whole community come together to wrestle with the growing substance abuse problem. The following is the Mission Statement and summary of some of their work. If you would like to be part of this important work to represent Second Baptist Church, Please contact the Reverend Car.

Mission Statement:

Members of the Suffield Community who have the shared goal of increasing substance abuse awareness by providing information on prevention and available help resources while supporting a stigma free vision of addiction as an illness.

Youth Assessment Survey

As one of our many initiatives, the Suffield Local Prevention Council (SLPC) working with the Suffield Public Schools administration and staff, and with the support of the Board of Education and Board of Selectmen, conducted a confidential Youth Assessment Survey (YAS) for students in grades 7-12 on June 1, 2017.

The results of this survey will provide us with better information about our youth and their attitudes and behaviors regarding substance use and abuse. With this information, our community can plan strategies and programs that strive to increase protective factors, and decrease risk factors.

Keep in mind that substance abuse is not just a youth issue but affects individuals of all ages. In the past 2 years we have had 7 overdose deaths in Suffield and numerous other occasions when lives were saved by Suffield Volunteer Ambulance Association or Suffield Police personnel administering Narcan.

On October 16th at 6:30pm in the Suffield High School auditorium the SLPC will sponsor a community forum where the results of the survey will be presented by Christine Miskell of the Southeastern Regional Action Council (SERAC) who analyzed the data and prepared the YAS report.

Other speakers will include representatives of the Suffield Police Department, Suffield Volunteer Ambulance Association, Suffield Schools, Suffield Youth Services and the SLPC, as well as State Representative Tami Zawistowski. The emphasis of these presentations will be current initiatives to address substance abuse concerns in the Suffield community.

Some of ways that everyone can help include:

As the Suffield Local Prevention Council (SLPC) continin the Suffield community and to provide information on prevention and available help resources, it has become very apparent that there are many ways that each of us can be a piece of the solution when it comes to preventing substance abuse.

By talking to your children about the risks of substance abuse and how to avoid becoming involved. Research has shown that individuals who have not abused drugs or alcohol by the time they are 18 have a 90 percent chance of never doing so. If they don't start by 21 they have a 95 percent chance of not becoming addicted.

By being a role model. Parent's actions speak louder than words - we should assess our own smoking and drinking as well as use of prescription medications or marijuana. All of these are proven "gateways" to further substance abuse, and are typically used before a person progresses to other, more harmful substances.

By asking doctors if there is an alternative to prescribing opioids when pain medication is required. Opioid use is a major contributor to the current heroin epidemic in the United States.

By getting rid of any unwanted and/or expired medications. Any community member can discard these at any time at the Prescription Collection Drop Box located in the lobby of the Suffield Police Department at 911 Mountain Road.

By calling the police if you know of someone dealing drugs or supplying alcohol to minors. Calls can go to the Suffield Police main number at 860-668-3870 and can be made anonymously.

By asking for help if you, a family member or a friend need it. The most direct way to find a resource is to dial 2-1-1, where you will reach a highly-trained contact specialist who will assess your needs and provide referrals to local resources. You can get help with not only substance abuse concerns but with utility assistance, food, housing, child care, after school programs, elder care, crisis intervention and much more.

Together we can be so much more effective working to reduce the damage of alcohol and drug abuse to our families, our friends, and our community. Always remember that "You Are a Piece of the Solution".
